

OK! HOT THIS WEEK

TRENDS A-LISTERS ARE LOVING

FLOPS THAT FLIP

Bella Thorne hit the launch party for the Crocs Funway Runway Twitter campaign in the brand's versatile Sexi Flip Crocs sandals. "I love to wear them to the beach, because they can actually go in the water," she says. crocs.com

The massive play area has zones set up for kids of different ages, from tots to teens.

MEXICO'S MOST KID-FRIENDLY RESORT

A beach vacation with kids in tow can be challenging. While Mom and Dad would love to nap by the ocean all day, children need lots of stimulation. And now, thanks to Coral KidZ Club – a high-tech, indoor-outdoor playground at the Grand Fiesta Americana Coral Beach resort in Cancun, Mexico – they'll get it! Created by award-winning firm Launch by Design, the $2 million, 50,000-square-foot space features a climbing wall, basketball courts and sprinkler zone, plus Internet access for interactive "edutainment" tied to Mexico's culture and history. After all that, the little ones will need a nap too!

SMALL BAG, BIG FLAVOR

Normally, cheesiness is a bad thing – but not when it comes to Pirate's Booty Aged White Cheddar. Made from puffed rice and corn, blended with real aged white Cheddar cheese and baked to perfection, it's a totally addictive snack. $2.79 for a 4 oz. bag at Target, Costco and grocery stores

ARRIVING IN STYLE

Jamie Chung rolled up to the Sally Beauty Mobile Nail Studio in NYC in a brand-new Kia Sorento SX, decked out in a Reformation dress. What's more put-together than that?